JIM FLAHERTY WAS NOT GUILTY

District Attorney Duncan and Attorney J L McNab went to Willits Wednesday in the case of the people v J W Flaherty and Elmer Owens, the former representing the prosecution and the latter Mr Owens. It seems that Roy Shackelford looked on the wine or some other kind of booze a little too long and when he woke up found he was about $15 short on wordly possessions. He immediately swore out a complaint charging the gentlemen named with appropriating the money. When they appeared in court it seems that he did not recognize Mr Flaherty and of course the genial Jim was discharged.

It was proven that Mr Owen was with Mr Shackelford and when he found the latter was becoming intoxicated prevailed upon him to give up his purse for safe keeping. The money had been returned and the defendant Mr Owen was also discharged. Mr Flaherty's friends in this city felt sure that a grevious error had been made when they heard of that gentleman's arrest and feel very gratified at the outcome of the case.

Rebekahs Hold Reception

Monday evening the members of Cornelia Rebekah lodge tendered a reception to Mr and Mrs William York. A large number of the members gathered in the banquet room after lodge and the tables were spread and icecream and cake served. The evening was a very pleasant one and thoroughly enjoyed by all. Mr and Mrs York were presented with a set of silver teaspoons as a token of the esteem in which they were held by the lodge. The spoons were engraved with the initial of the recipients Mrs York who is Noble grand of Cornelia lodge acknowledged the gift in a few appropriate words and Will added his thanks also. It was intended to have a double reception and include Mr and Mrs Storey but as they were unable to be present a set of silver orange spoons were sent to them with the kindest wishes of the members of the lodge.

A Fine Chronometer

The Joseph Jewelry company has installed one of the latest in chronometers. It is a large Waterbury regulater with a mercury pendulum and sets on a concrete base. When regulated this clock will keep as accurate time as it is possible for a mechanism to do. The fact that it is on a concrete base and connected with the ground will prevent any jars or disturbances from affecting it. The chronometer is fitted with minute hour and second hands and was installed by Mr Joseph on account of his being official watch inspector for for the Northwestern Pacific rail road. The railroad company requires that the watches of employees be very accurate and they will now be regulated by this clock.

Six Months For disturbing Peace

Dave Jamison, constable of Round valley, brought Ralph Moore down Wednesday to serve a sentence of six months in the county jail for disturbing the peace. Moore is a full blooded Indian and has served several previous sentences in the counuy jail.

W KOHN WILL BE BROUGHT BACK

Sheriff Donohoe and T S Lynch left Wednesday for Roseburg, Oregon to get William Kohn who escaped from Cal Toney at the depct some months ago while Cal was on his way with him to Folsom. Sheriff Donohoe will return Kohn to Folsom to commence serving his sentence of fifteen years.

It will be remembered that Kohn was handcuffed at the time of his escape but never the less made good his escape and was not captured until he returned to where he was known. He was sentenced to Folsom for breaking into a cabin belonging to some railroad hands near Ridgewood and also Chases saloon at Calpella. He had a couple of boys with him who were returned to their parents in Oregon.

Fell Off Of A Wagon

Clarance Kelley met with an accidant last Thursday evening that came within a hair's breadth of killing him. He spent the day in town and was riding out to Melville's mill on a freight wagon which was driven by Rete Marshal, says the Willits News. When about half a mile from the mill Kelley fell off the seat and the front wheel run over the back of his head and cut a deep gash, and also over both of his arms. The men carried him to the cabin and sent for a doctor who went out and dressed his wounds. For a while it looked as if Kelley would die but he is now reported as in a fair way to recovery. He has been drinking very heavily for some weeks and it is thought that a spell of heart failure caused him to fall.

Improvements At The Palace

The Palace hotel is undergoing a thorough renovating and being put in shape for the summer travel. It is receiving a coat of paint inside and out which will add greatly to the appearance of the building. This is one of the most popular hostelrys in the country and Proprietor Sandelin's hospitality is becoming known far and wide. He is a thorough hotel man and deserves his share of the public patronage. The building is the property of Judge Mannon.

Good Prices For Prunes

E K Casab was in this city last week contracting for the coming coming prune crop. He has secured all of the Lake county crop and most of the crop of this county. He reports that the outlook for dried fruits this year is very encouraging and he has been paying from $60 to $75 a ton for the prunes on the cars. This is considerable more than the prune growers are in the habit of receiving for their crop and they naturally feel elated.

Wedded In This City

Miss Minnie Reilly of Boonville and Ed Wainwright of Mendocino were married in this city Wednesday and after spending a few days here will return to Mendocino where they will make their home. The bride is a handsome and popular young lady and the groom is one of the valued employees of the Mendocino Lumber company. Both have a host of friends who wish them unalloyed happiness for the remainder of their lives.

Ukiah Wins Another Victory

The Ukiah baseball team appeared on the diamond Sunday in a complete new uniform. The suits were donated to the boys by the me chants and each suit bears the name of the donner. The suits are very neat and evidently encouraged the boys to do their very best as they again defeated the Santa Rosa team.

Willard Is Again Reprieved

Frank Willard has again been reprieved by the governor this time until June 14th. Willard was to have been hanged yesterday.

The pupils are taking a lively interest in the Press vacation trip and are getting down to work in earnest. They appreciate the fact that this is the chance of a lifetime for a trip to San Francisco not only from the fact that it will cost them absolutely nothing but also from the fact that during the trip they will be associated with other boys and girls and that only the brightest and smartest and most ambitious boys and girls in the county will be represented.

In fact it may safely be said that the boys and girls who win the Press vacation trips will be the boys and girls who will be heard from in the future. They are the ones who will make Mendocino county known to the outside world. It will be worth years of ordinary life to associate with the brightest boys and girls in the county for a week and to form their acquaintance which will undoubtedly prove beneficial in the future. Mendocino county is now known throughout the state for its bright boys and girls both through the universities and in atheletic circles and we claim without hesitancy that the boys and girls who win the Press vacation trips will be the pick of them all.

Parents and friends are becoming aware of this fact and while the contest is only a couple of weeks old every mail is bringing votes to this office for the favorites in the respective districts. In this district Charley Mathews, George Bush and Harvey Sweeney are doing good work and are all favorites. Each one has a nice bunch of votes to his credit. In the first district Master Gilger of Hopland is out rustling among his friends and is doing good work. Miss Nancy A Hall of Laytonville with the help of her friends placed a fine lot of votes to her credit this week. Miss Hall has made up her mind that she is going to be one of the ones who will enjoy the Press vacation trip and the other con-testants in that section will be compelled to wake up if they want to be in the running.

Eugene Purrington of the Hopland Union school district sent in a bunch of votes Wednesday and states that he is going to try and be a winner. From his letter it seems that the other contestants in the first district will have to look to their laurels or they will not be in it at the final count. If Master Purrington makes this his motto for life he will land near the top. We request all of the candidates in the vacation trip contest to send in their photographs as we intend publishing the pictures of our little friends. The boys and girls will naturally want to see how their opponents lock as they are so widly scattered it is very probable that few of them are acquainted. Our subscribers are also interested in this matter and we have received several letters requesting this as they want to see how the brightest boys and girls in the county look. Send us as good a photograph as you can as the effect of the cut which we will have made depends on the quality of the

Some Fine Show Cases

Jamison Bros put in four fine new plate show cases this week and report that they will substitute plate glass cases for all of the counters in the dry goods department. The improvement in the looks is a noticable one and will doubtless be greatly appreciated by their customers. The new cases will give seventy five feet of display room and greatly increases the capacity of the store. The cases are the work of John Palmer and Martin Sloper and were turned out at the Lucas Bros company's planing mill. The frames are of oak highly polished and the sides and tops of the cases are of heavy plate glass. The job is equal to any that can be turned out in any of the large show cases factories and the boys were able to complete the job for less than the figures furnished by eastern concerns.

The Santa Rosa Scraps

About fifty from this city visited Santa Rosa Wednesday night to attend the prize fight in that city. The first event of the evening was a ten round go between Mike Kutchos of San Francisco and Young Peddler Palmer of this city which ended in a draw. Young Palmer showed himself to be a scrapper of high class at the 120 pound mark and kept his opponent guessing at every stage of the game. Kutchos has had fully thirty fights and has made good in every one, but Palmer sent him to the ropes groggy several times. The main event was between Young Choynski and Geo Herbets which lasted eight rounds when Herberts put his man out.

Buying The Prune Crop

William Cox returned this week from Anderson valley where he had been to purchase prunes. He reports that he contracted for all of the growing crop in the Philo district. He has also secured a good portion of the crop in the neighborhood of Cloverdale. Mr Cox is buying for E K Cassab & company.

The Annual Wool Sale

Wool sale to be held at Lucas Bros ware house has been postponed from June 11th to Tuesday, June 18th.

THE CREAMERY NOW ASSURED

Frank Sandelin and J H Barker, the committe on the creamery proposition, report that there is no question but that the project will be a go. They have already nearly enough money in sight to make the installation of the plant possible and a very little work will raise the remainder. The big problem that the committee is now wrestling with is the selection of a site for the creamery.

They have a number of places in view, all of which would be suitable, and it is expected that they will reach a decision on this matter before long. It is desired to secure a site as near town as possible and it must be within the city limits. The creamery will be as clean and nice a neighbor as it is possible to imagine as there will be no refuse skim milk to sour this being disposed of at the skimming stations the farmers being allowed to take it home to feed their pigs.

The farmers are taking hold of the matter in the most gratifying manner and are subscribing for considerable of the stock. This is what the committee desires as they believe that the people who will furnish the cream should be the owners of the enterprise. The business men however are so sure that the enterprise will be a success from the start that they are willing to make an actual demonstration.

The establishment of this creamery in Ukiah valley will be the means of saving thousands of dollars each year that would otherwise be sent out of the county for butter. The peculiar proposition regarding the difference between buying butter made at home and sending away for butter is that when the butter is bought from home people the money paid for it all stays at home. There is no sending money out of the county for the raw material as is the case with most manufactured products. Naturally with the establishment of this creamery and its success will come other creameries or the enlarging of the old one and it will only be a short time until the home market is being supplied and thousands of dollars worth of butter will be shipped to outside markets. The old regime will be reversed and instead of sending our money away for butter we will be sending butter away for money.

The creamery countries are the wealthiest in the world proportionately and Ukiah valley and the adjoining valleys have the soil and climate that will produce the necessary food for cattle. Thousands of acres of bottom land that are now in crops that bring a good price one year and nothing the next can be set to alfalfa and the farmer can figure the profit on his crop almost to a certainty and it will be a good one too.

The dairy and wine industries are the ones to which Ukiah valley must look for her future development and they should be given every opportunity for development. The dairy industry is the one however that will be developed in the shortest time and and will benefit the largest number of people with the smallest capital. It is to the interest of every resident that this initial attempt at the dairy business be made a success.

A Badly Mixed Survey

H J Randall was over from Boonville last week and reports that he is still running lines in that part of the country. He is working on one of the townships that was surveyed by contract for the government, or in other words was charted out by a surveyor who did not visit the land at all. The result is that field notes frequently call for a corner on a piece of grazing land that is located in a redwood forest. Sometimes the field notes locate a creek on top of a hill. Randall says that he has to hide the fieldnotes occasionally and use his head to keep from getting lost altogether.

ALMANACH DE GOTHA.

History of This Old and World Famous Institution.

The Almanach de Gotha is more than an almanac. It is an institution. Bravely arrayed in red and gold, it lies on the table of every diplomatist, is in constant request in the newspaper offices of all countries and makes a wider and more international appeal than any other annual of reference in the world. It is to Europe what Burke and Debrett and the other peerages are to the British isles, and it is also the lineal ancestor and model of such topical encyclopedias as our Whittaker, our Hazell and our Statesman's Yearbook. A political and social history of the world for the last 150 years could be written from its back numbers if these were readily accessible to students. But they are not. The Almanach de Gotha began to appear in 1763, but the purchasers did not file it for reference. The earliest numbers in the British museum are those for 1774 and 1783, and a complete set can be consulted nowhere except in the editorial office in Friedrich's Allee in the little Thuringian capital. Probably not one in ten thousand of those who currently use the almanac has any knowledge of its interesting history.

It had of course its predecessors. The bibliographies of almanacs are ponderous tomes, and the middle of the eighteenth century was the golden age of this kind of literature. In Paris alone as many as seventy-three almanacs were published in the year 1760, including a royal almanac, an almanac for merchants, an almanac for Freemasons, an almanac of beasts, an almanac of badinage, etc. The city of Gotha itself had its own almanac from a still earlier date in the shape of an "improved Gotha genealogical and writing calendar," the origin of which is lost in the mist of antiquity, though a copy dated 1740 survives.—Francis Gribble in Scribner's.

A FEAT OF MEMORY.

Zangwill's Knowledge of the Famous Trials of History.

As an indication of the quality of Zangwill's mental processes I may relate an incident that occurred while we were producing "The Children of the Ghetto." Mr. Zangwill was seated in my office, and we were going over some of the details of the play. It was the day that Labori, intimately connected with the Dreyfus case in Paris, was assassinated. Knowing that Zangwill had intimate knowledge of the case, a New York newspaper sent a representative up to see him. The reporter entered and after conveying the news said:

"Mr. Zangwill, we want from you a history of all the famous trials you can call to mind for our paper."

"Indeed?" said Mr. Zangwill. "I think I can prepare that for you. Come to see me in three or four days, and I will have it ready."

"We want it now," objected the newspaper man. "We want to print it in our paper tomorrow morning."

"But you surely don't expect me to quote you dates and facts out of my mind on the spur of the moment, do you?" asked Mr. Zangwill in astonishment. "Such a thing is out of reason."

"I'm sorry, but it's the only way we can make use of it," replied the newspaper man firmly. Mr. Zangwill thought a moment and then asked if he could have my stenographer for a short time. He was called in, and Zangwill dictated to him then and there a two column resume of all the famous trials of history, from Savonarola down, and quoted every important date and historical feature connected with each.—From "Israel Zangwill," by George C. Tyler, in Bohemian.

The Crowning Blow.

"Mothers and nurses have devised and invented many ways of procuring obedience and correct behavior from their little charges," said a park policeman. "The familiar 'bogy man' is still employed, but the times change and the people with them. The last fine day, when the park was filled with mothers and nurses, I heard a new way of appealing to the love or fear of a child. A stylishly dressed young woman leading an irrepressible youngster, after making all sorts of threats and promises without effect, said, 'Child, child, you give me wrinkles under my eyes!'"—New York Press.

To Cure a Bad Habit.

A way to cure a bad habit is thus explained by the Rev. Samuel McComb in the New York World: If you have a habit you wish to get rid of put your mind upon it after going to bed. Resolve to discard that habit at the moment you are lapsing from semiconsciousness into complete unconsciousness. Repeat the operation several nights, several weeks if necessary, and cure will follow, provided that the day after the first night the experiment is started you obey the impulse that will come on you to avoid the accustomed habit.

The Bad Place.

"What! Fishing on the Sabbath?" exclaimed the clergyman reprovingly. "Don't you know that little boys who fish on the Sabbath go to the bad place?"

"Huh, I guess dat's right," replied the bad boy disgustedly. "I couldn't 'a' struck no worse place dan dis."—Philadelphia Press.

A NEED, JUST LIKE SLEEP.

Is the Instinct of Natural Death Born In Mankind?

The most convincing fact in proof of the existence in man of an instinct of natural death seems to me that reported by Toxarsky in relation to an old woman. In the lifetime of Toxarsky I begged an acquaintance of his to obtain for me the details of this most interesting case, of which I had found but an incomplete statement. Toxarsky unfortunately could add nothing to what he had published in his article. I believe, however, that I have found the source from which his instance had been taken.

In his book upon the physiology of taste, which had its day of celebrity, Brillat-Savarin relates the following: "I had a great-aunt, ninety-three years old, who was dying. Although for some time confined to her bed, she had retained all her faculties, and her condition was only betrayed by her loss of appetite and the weakening of her voice. She had always shown a fondness for me, and I was near her bed, affectionately ready to wait on her, which did not prevent my watching her with the philosophical eye I have ever had for the things and events surrounding me. 'Are you there, nephew?' she asked, in a scarcely audible voice. 'Yes, aunt; I am here at your service, and I think you would do well to take a little good old wine.' 'Give, mon ami. One can always swallow liquid.' I hastened. Raising her gently, I made her take half a glass of my best wine. She brightened for a moment and, looking at me with eyes which had once been very fine, 'Thank you,' she said, 'for this last favor. If ever you reach my age you will find that death becomes a need, just like sleep.'

"These were her last words. Half an hour later she had fallen asleep forever. We unmistakably have here an instance of the instinct of natural death. The instinct was shown at a relatively early age in a person who had retained all her intellectual faculties."—Professor Elie Metchnikoff in Harper's.

POINTED PARAGRAPHS.

Beat a boy out of a dime and the crime will never outlaw.

Comparison may not be a detraction, but it is certainly a half sister.

The truth with unselfish people is they are liable to brag about it.

There is only one way in this world to get your own way—insist upon it.

Almost any defense would be all right if you could make people believe it.

It is just as dangerous to tell some people a secret as it is to fool with a loaded gun.

When a man submits to a procession wedding the other men look at him the way boys look at a boy whose mother makes him wear long curls.

The man who has made a failure in any line of business never has a very good opinion of the man who started in the same line at the same time and made it a success.—Atchison Globe.

Too Deep.

The story is told of a lank, disconsolate looking farmer who one day during the progress of a political meeting in Cooper institute stood on the steps with the air of one who has been surfeited with a feast of some sort.

"Do you know who's talking in there now?" demanded a stranger briskly, pausing for a moment beside the disconsolate farmer, "or are you just going in?"

"No, sir. I've just come out," said the farmer decidedly. "Mr. Evarts is talking in there."

"What about?" asked the stranger.

"Well, he didn't say," the farmer answered, passing a knotted hand across his forehead.

Fire Insurance Protects You

That is if it is the right kind. If a man daes not pay his debts you don't trust him. If a fire insurance company does not pay you should not trust it. You pay an insurance premium for a certain amount and if your house burns you expect that amount. Anything less will not satisfy you. If the has lost millions that is not your fault, you want your money. Tee way to know that you will get your money is to patronize the insurance company that has paid. My companies are dollar for dollar companies. The rates are the the same.

GRIM OLD CROMWELL.

The Protector Made Christmas a Gloomy and Serious Day.

"Christmas was illegal in Cromwell's time," said an antiquary. "Those grim old Puritans were so gloomy that they would not have any gaiety even on Christmas day.

"Cromwell said that holly and mistletoe were heathenish things. He said that they had no real Christian significance; they were a part of some pagan festival of the Druids. Accordingly he made a law that if you decorated your house with mistletoe at Christmas you got thirty days in jail.

"The terrible old fellow forbade Christmas celebrations—no dancing, no singing, no playgoing, no feasting on Christmas day; penalty, thirty days.

"You see, it was his idea that Christmas was a religious, a serious time, a time for churchgoing and prayer and reverence and for nothing else. The innocent family that in Cromwell's day sat down to turkey and plum pudding and wound up with Christmas games got a month all round.

"Only for a time, though. The people rebelled. Willing as the people had been to put on the gloom of these dreadful old Puritans, they insisted on having a little joy on Christmas day, and Cromwell after a year or two had to give in to them."—New Orleans Times-Democrat.

"The Woman In White."

In a letter to Charles Dickens, Wilkie Collins intimated the fact that the great work upon which he had devoted so much time was finished, but that the finding of a suitable title had occasioned him much trouble. Eventually feeling somewhat run down in health he left London for Broadstairs, a resort which was a favorite with both Dickens and Collins. While lying on the cliff in a meditative mood one bright morning his eyes suddenly fixed themselves on the white lighthouse which stood boldly out in the foreground under the dazzling rays of the midday sun. As he gazed Collins in a semiconscious manner addressed himself in a whisper to the lighthouse. "You are as stiff and as stately as my white woman," said he. "White woman! White—the woman in white. Eureka! I have got it!" And so the book was given this curiously inspired title.

The French Men.

The Frenchman of the middle class sacrifices everything in order to obtain for his children some official position or other, a mean one, perhaps, but a sure one, leading after thirty years of penury to a pension worthy an destitution. This is one aspect of the decay of the French race. It is easy to understand that two races are not equally armed for the struggle for life if one be made up of aspirants to official position and the other of individuals possessing initiative, daring and energy. For this reason do Latin races decline while Anglo-Saxon races grow and multiply.—Paris Siècle.

Bow and Arrow Fishing.

In the south seas and in various groups of islands in the Indian Ocean the aborigines shoot fish with the bow and arrow. The art is extremely difficult, as in taking aim at an object under water the archer has to allow for refraction. If he were to aim directly at the fish as he sees it, he would, of course, miss. Long practice has, however, made the natives expert to a wonderful degree in this sport.—London Saturday Review.

It Was Tough.

The waiter girl knew a thing or two about table etiquette, so she sniffed scornfully as she said, "It's not our custom to serve a knife with pie." "No?" remarked the patron in surprise. "Then bring me an ax."—Christian Register.

Bliss Native Herbs

THIS famous household remedy is not a "patent medicine" in any sense—but a delightful combination of roots, herbs and barks such as our grand parents used for Rheumatism, Indigestion, Torpid Liver, Blood Diseases and a run down system. Its simple ingredients are as harmless as milk. It contains no minerals, no alcohol, no poison of any kind. Bliss Native Herbs Tablets are free from coating and begin their healing work as soon as swallowed. Many people in this locality have used them. Many more testify in our Almanac, to be had free of cost. Each box contains 200 tablets for $1.00 and a printed Guarantee to cure or refund the money. The medicine is not sold in drug-stores, but only by

CONTEST NOTICE

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR, UNITED STATES LAND OFFICE, OAKLAND, CALIF., April 16, 1907.

A sufficient contest affidavit having been filed in this office by Mary M. Sowers, contestant, against homestead entry No. 13888, made April 4, 1908, for Lots 1, 2, 3, 4, Section 10, Township 17 N., Range 11 W., M. D. M., by Henry Jensen, contestee, in which it is alleged that said entryman, Henry Jensen, has never established any residence on the above described land nor has he made any cultivation upon the same, and that the entryman has wholly abandoned the land for a period of time greater than six months next prior to the filing with Sept. 1, 1906, that the entryman has not lived a sufficient length of time upon the land to earn his commutation, that said alleged absence from the land was not caused by his employment in the Army, Navy, or Marine Corps of the United States.

Said parties are hereby notified to appear, respond and offer evidence touching said allegation at 10 o'clock a. m. on Monday, June 3, 1907 before the U. S. Commissioner at Cloverdale, Calif., and that final hearing will be held at 10 o'clock a. m. on Monday, June 24, 1907 before the Register and Receiver at the United States Land Office in Oakland, Calif.

The said contestant having, in a proper affidavit filed April 16, 1907, set forth facts which show that after due diligence personal service of this notice cannot be made, it is hereby ordered and directed that such notice be given by due and proper publication.

T. G. DANIELLS, Register.
S. S. MORTON, Receiver.

Notice For Publication.

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR, LAND OFFICE AT OAKLAND, CALIF., May 18, 1907.

Notice is hereby given that Edward F.
